Editorial Bricklediciones prepara una travesía por la arquitectura constructivista soviética "Huellas de una utopía" (Moscú-San Petersburgo-Minsk-Vitebsk) de la mano de la arquitecta, Olga Tolmacheva, del Instituto de Arquitectura de Moscú.

Es un viaje de 15 días por Moscú-San Petersburgo-Minsk-Vitebsk, recorriendo diversas obras constructivistas junto a una arquitecta del Instituto de Arquitectura de Moscú, en idioma inglés. Asimismo, los participantes alojarán en casa o departamentos de los propios rusos y se movilizarán en los medios de transportes que usa un ruso en su vida diaria (trolley, Metro, Transvía), entre otros detalles. La idea es re-crear en la medida de lo posible aquello que permitió dar lugar a ese movimiento artístico que tan honda huella dejó en la arquitectura mundial.
